MR. S. LEVINE STATES HE HAS NOT RECEIVED CLOTHING BACK

Anent the lengthy argument at last meeting of Town Council over police matters, and certain statements made there, Mr. Samuel Levine has handed The Independent the following statement:

Editor, The Independent:

"The article written in your Independent on June 12, 1947, quoting statement made by Councillor Bonham that most of the clothes stolen from Levine's Store had been recovered.

"Up to this date, June 12, 1947, I have not received anything back yet.

"The only thing that occurred was that Mr. Turner took Archie to Hamilton to identify some of the stolen goods. The only thing he identified was a corduroy cap with our mark on it.

"There was a few more articles there, but Archie could not identify them because the price ticket had been torn off."

GRIMSBY SUFFERS LOSS OF VALUED CITIZEN

Burton W. Shantz Had Been Ill For 16 Months—Came To Grimsby 26 Years Ago—Operated West End Motors.

A patient sufferer for the past 16 months, Burton Willard Shantz, prominent Grimsby and district businessman, was taken home to his Maker on Tuesday afternoon.

Deceased was born in Waterloo county and after spending some years in Western Canada came to Grimsby in 1921 and in company with Edward Brubaker purchased the garage sales and service business of the then County Motors, situated where the Bourne and A. & P. stores now are. Later they operated the garage that is now the Home-Town Motors and then constructed the fine garage and service station that is known as West End Motors. Three years ago Mr. Shantz took over the interests of Mr. Brubaker and continued to operate it until the time of his demise.

Burt Shantz was a man with a pleasing personality and great sales ability and his success in life was due solely to his own efforts. He was extremely well read and a deep thinker and could converse on any subject most intelligently that came up in any group or gathering.

THE GOLIATH OF ALL SPRAYING MACHINES

Pictured above is the large spraying machine that The Independent told you about last week. This machine was shipped from the Clarence W. Lewis and Son plant on Wednesday night of last week to the County of Carleton to be used for weed spraying purposes. The tank of this machine is of 1,000 gallons capacity and is operated by a 32 H. P. motor and a 25 gallon a minute pump operating at 800 pounds pressure. It has a 10 foot swing broom that sprays the roadside from the shoulder of the road to the fence line. The machine also carries trigger nozzle for spraying beyond the point that the broom reaches. A platform on the rear carries three nozzlemen.—Photo by Robert Alldrick.

This new spray will kill for all time all types of weeds and wild growth and the machine has a capacity of thoroughly spraying a heavy growth of weed patch of an acre in extent with only the use of four gallons of water or mixed spray.

TWO YEARS IMMUNIZATION RECORD OF COUNTY CHILDREN

(By DR. J. M. MATHER, M.O.H., West Lincoln Health Unit)

It is often hard to evaluate the results of a Public Health program. Many achievements can only be judged in the light of a long range view over a period of years.

Immunization against communicable diseases among school children gives a concrete measure of effort and of results obtained. Among the 2046 primary school children in the western area of Lincoln County, only 52 (2.5%), are not immunized against diphtheria and 155 (7.6%), are not successfully vaccinated against smallpox.

In the fall of 1945, when the Health Unit began its work, a survey of the state of immunization among the children in the 42 schools in the western area of Lincoln County was made. A similar survey was made in June, 1947. In these two years the proportion of children immunized against smallpox and diphtheria has been vastly increased.

CHILDREN IMMUNIZED (PER CENT)

Township	Diphtheria 1945	Diphtheria 1947	Smallpox 1945	Smallpox 1947
Calistot	70	97	18	83
Clinton	82	98	70	95
Gainsboro	65	96	33	90
North Grimsby	88	98	79	95
South Grimsby	87	95	37	85
Total Area	78	97	60	92

Thus, practically all the school children in this area have been immunized against smallpox and diphtheria. Of the 52 children who have not received diphtheria toxoid, the parents refused permission for 45 and 7 are new arrivals in the district. Of the 155 children who have not been successfully vaccinated against smallpox, there was parent refusal for 81, there are 11 children newly arrived, and vaccination was not successful in 63. Probably many of this latter group of 63 children were vaccinated as infants, the scar is too small to be found, and it is not possible to get another take.

Immunization among school children represents only part of the total immunization done by the Health Unit. In the pre-school population great effort is made to begin immunization against smallpox, diphtheria, and whooping cough in babies at 6 months of age. Since the Health Unit began its work in the fall of 1945, there have been 413 successful vaccinations among pre-school children, 368 have been protected against whooping cough, and 378 against diphtheria.

These figures give some idea of the amount of work being done by the Health Unit. The results from many other aspects of the program cannot be reported in statistics. They will be apparent in the years to come in better individual and community health.

COUNCILLOR MITCHELL WANTS MORE PERMANENT ROADS

ACCOUNT FOR FIREMEN'S SERVICES QUESTIONED

Joint Fire Committee Doubtful If They Should Pay For Men On Duty At Arena For Hockey Games.

At the May session of Township Council when the account for the Joint Fire Committee was laid on the table Finance Minister Bartlett stated that he was in more or less of a fog as to what the $102 for firemen's services at the Arena during the winter meant.

At the Town Council meeting on Wednesday night last the same question arose.

On Friday evening the Joint Fire Committee in session had somewhat of an argument on the question. It appears that at the January meeting of the committee it was agreed that the committee would pay for the services of two firemen to be in attendance at hockey games during the season as a protective measure for the public.

At that time no member of the committee had any idea that the Peach Kings were going to win a championship, that the crowds at the Arena would be so great or that the season would be so long.

Claims That Work On Side Roads Below The Mountain Has Only Been Patching And Done Haphazardly—Roads Should Be Named And Signed.

If Councillor Wm. Mitchell of North Grimsby has his way the council will establish a plan of building at least one permanent road each year in the township below the mountain.

During a discussion of road matters at council meeting on Saturday afternoon Councillor Mitchell claimed that the side roads below the mountain were in bad shape and that council was getting no place with patching and haphazard road building. His contention was that at least one permanent road should be constructed every year until all the roads below the hill were of a permanent nature. Moreover he wants all the roads properly signed so that motorists would know the name of each and every road.

At this juncture Councillor Bartlett suggested that at least one road below the mountain should be designated as Mitchell Avenue.

FACTS & FANCIES

Frank Fairborn, Jr.

A MARVELLOUS IDEA

At last Saturday's meeting of North Grimsby Council that youthful, up and coming Councillor, Sam Bartlett, produced the finest idea that has been brought forth in any town or township council in a long while.

During a discussion regarding roads above and below the escarpment, Councillor Bartlett busted in with the remark, "Can not we name one of these roads below the mountain 'Mitchell Avenue.'"

What a grand idea.

Even I, who is supposed to have his fingers on the pulse of the municipality, had never given that idea a thought. It remained for a youngster to teach the old bird something.

I hope that Councillor Bartlett goes ahead with his idea and enlarges it, because there are other men in this community who have something coming to them, for services they have rendered the township.

STILL ONE HOG

The St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce bulletin this month carries the following:

Prices are comparative, as everyone knows and sometimes forgets. This fact is vividly illustrated by an incident related in a letter from a lumber house in the Middle West. While it may be good for a smile it does remain a basic thought. The firm writes:

"We had a farmer in the front office the other day after 19 bundles of No. 1 red cedar shingles. When he heard the price of $16.35 per square, he didn't quite blow off the roof, but he walked out with marked indications of disapproval.

"He was back an hour or so later, however, to take the shingles, explaining: 'I've been thinkin'. Seven years ago it would have taken the price of a hog to roof that building, and it's still just one hog.'"

WORKING HOURS

Whoever, posing as a friend of labor, advocates the compulsory shorter working week is either a hypocrite or an ignoramus. He knows or he ought to know that men can have things only by working for them. And all men want the products of labor.

More than that: there is not a single ambitious man, not one with any drive, any desire to forge ahead, who actually believes in or voluntarily practices a short work week. I find proof of that at home. In one of our factories, where temporarily we have been working a 40-hour week, a quick check has located 72 employees engaged in part-time work outside, and 45 more who are taking outside schooling in classroom or by mail.

These employees are working on the side as part-time farm hands, candy makers, gas station attendants, automobile mechanics, refrigerator mechanics, welders, shop operators, bookkeepers, bus drivers, floor sanders, movie film checkers, church janitors, teachers, store clerks, venetian blind cleaners, musicians, constables, pin setters, salesmen, draftsmen, waitresses, etc.

Why do they tackle these part-time jobs when they are through with their eight hours a day. They want more money to buy things they desire, to increase their savings for future use and for old age security. But they also work because they enjoy work more than idleness, because they take pleasure in accomplishing things, and because work helps keep them out of mischief.

In this mechanical age back-breaking, health-harming labor is no longer necessary. But work is essential, for labor properly channeled and managed produces food, clothing, housing, other comforts and luxuries and the luxury of today is the necessity of tomorrow. Even England's labor government is learning that longer hours are need to get production lines rolling.

When I say in all sincerity, that work is fun, some people smile. But it is fun, and it is more smashed than that. Ten years ago I was all of their up in an auto wreck: both hips out of their sockets, foot crushed, leg broken, pelvis bone and hip socket smashed. They improvised a hospital room for me at the factory, so I could direct operations. That helped alleviate the pain. Work is a good narcotic. Yes, and it is habit-forming, too.

If we have the good of our fellowman at heart we will revoke order that men may have opportunity to provide the maximum for their families.

"In all labor there is profit," but "through idleness of the hands the house droppeth through." (Proverbs 14:23; Ecclesiastes 10:18).—By R. G. LeTOURNEAU, Reprinted from LeTourneau Technical Institute Journal, Longview, Texas.

FARMERS LOSE RIGHTS TO SHOOT ON OWN LANDS

(Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville)

According to press reports the C.C.F. government of the Province of Saskatchewan is introducing a bill to amend the Game and Fisheries Act, which in certain circumstances will prevent a farmer from hunting or fishing on his own land. The effect of the legislation appears to be that in case a farmer puts up signs, "No Shooting or Fishing" his property automatically becomes designated a game sanctuary on which no one, including himself, can hunt or fish without permission of the government bureaucracy.

The excuse given for the proposed legislation is that the erection of such signs opens the way for the owner of the property to lease the game privileges to commercial interests and that sort of private enterprise comes under the socialist taboo. If the case is as stated it is certainly a novel way of circumscribing individual liberties. To prevent wild ducks stripping whole fields of wheat farmers better not put up these signs.

ALARM CLOCK A LUXURY?

Have you an alarm clock in your home?

What would happen if it failed to go off tomorrow morning?

What would happen if all the alarm clocks from Halifax to Vancouver didn't ring?

It would be as effective as a general "lie-down" strike, with hundreds of thousands of Canadians blissfully sleeping on until the pangs of hunger, their consciences or telephone calls from early risers awoke them.

Yet official Ottawa still terms an alarm clock a "luxury." It's right there on the price tag: "Clock, $5; luxury tax, 25%, $1.25; total, $6.25."

Canadians willingly paid heavy taxes in the war years. But it is preposterous to class as a luxury that vile instrument of man's invention which breaks deep slumber in the dark hours of a cold winter morning.

That is one tax which should be removed, and removed quickly, even if it takes a special act of Parliament to do it. In fact, it's time the alarm clock awoke Ottawa to the fact that Canadians are weary of excessive taxation.

O.K.! O.K.!

Constant use by old, as well as young, in recent years, has made O.K. one of the most widely used and familiar abbreviations of speech in our language of today.

Were it came from has puzzled more people than the makers of grammars, but it is here, and here, apparently, to stay. But here is one history of its origin:

In a book, "American Language," the author says: "The first known use of O.K. in this sense appears in the court records of Sumner County, Tennessee, October 6, 1790.

"On that date, Andrew Jackson, Esq., proved a bill of sale from Hugh McCarty, to Gasper Mausker, for a negro man, which was O.K. James Parton, in his biography of Jackson, suggests that what appeared to be O.K. in the record may really be a poorly penned O.R., which was the abbreviation used for Ordered Recorded. Apparently O.K. came into general use after Jackson was elected President."

But despite its hoary age, we still don't see any sense in it.

UNITED WE STAND

"United we stand, divided we fall," was one of the mottoes that was strongly emphasized in the early history of our country. The people felt in those days when the Dominion was young and not well developed, that they just had to work together effectively, to hold their own against stronger nations.

It still takes union and co-operation to enable a town to make the best gains in these times. There will of course be differences of opinion, and people will have varying ideas of what can or should be done for the development of their home town. But a general spirit of co-operation is a wonderful thing in accomplishing progress. If people are willing to do what they can to promote the welfare of the community, if they show enthusiasm for practical improvement plans, the home town will become still more successful and attractive.

Letters to the Editor

DOGS HERE AND IN ENGLAND

Editor, The Independent:

A visitor from the old country, in comparing English with Canadian streets, notices with regret the absence of dogs. So welcome are they in their communities abroad, so winsome and attractive in their ways, that it seems tragic that the greatest freedom-loving animals in the world should be called upon to make such a sacrifice when they themselves are in large part homeless.

In England to keep a dog is the rule and not the exception and his liberty is never violated. The dog's interest is closely guarded by the Tail-Wagger's Club who makes itself responsible for his welfare and for those who stray or are homeless. This club is largely supported by public subscriptions and the generous response has for many years earned the appreciation of dog lovers who enroll their dogs as tail-waggers with a small yearly donation, when expert advice is at their disposal. In all cases the dog is free, disease is at a minimum, and he is welcomed cordially in the streets. He is also seen in shops, on buses or trains or even in church. There are few complaints.

In the old days of Scottish Divines the presence of dogs in church was taken as a matter of course and a suitable pew was provided for them in the gallery. One would have enjoyed being with them, and perhaps in the case of some churches they have added much to the interest of the service. Dogs are prone to hours of boredom the result of confinement to either house or kennel and this is obviated by the Tail-Wagger Club who carry out elaborate systems of training in Britain. Suitable dogs are specially prepared for the service, trained as guards; large numbers of them give valuable aid in leading the blind. Many helped materially towards the success gained in the recent war and some are not demobilized yet.

Is a Tail-Wagger's Club needed here?

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES SPREAD OVER WORLD

Loyal Canadian though we are, we find it difficult to think of anything that originated in this country and then spread throughout the world. If we mention canoes and hockey and No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat there follows a long pause. . . . There is only one thing we know of which might be said to have been invented in Ontario and has since been imitated throughout the civilized world. That is the idea of the Women's Institute, which will celebrate its golden anniversary in Guelph on June 18. It seems amazing that it was only fifty years ago that this remarkable organization came into existence, for the need for it must have existed for centuries; for the need for it was born when a newspaper and even then the idea was a Hamilton woman. This was Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless. She noticed that the Ontario Department of Agriculture was urging the farmers of the province to improve their stock. She wholly approved of this, but she thought of something else that might also be improved, namely, the women on the farms. So she wrote to the Department of Education, asking that homemaking and domestic economy be taught in the schools.

At this time Farmers' Institutes had been long in existence and a member of one of them, Brian Lee of Raintree Township, South Westworth, invited Mrs. Hoodless to give a talk and go into some details. She so impressed those who heard her that a talk she so impressed those who heard her that a second meeting was arranged at Stony Creek on February 19, 1897, and was attended by a hundred and one farm women. Mrs. Hoodless, who had lost her first-born son by feeding him milk that was unfit for human consumption, hoped to save other women from similar suffering and tragedy, and pointed out what might be accomplished by education in all branches of homemaking and domestic science. Shortly after this meeting the first Women's Institute, patterned on the Farmers' Institutes, was formed. Its constitution specifically included as ends to be sought, improved household architecture, sanitation, food and food values, more scientific care of children and a general raising of the standard of health. Directors were appointed to arrange for addresses, and the subjects were both practical and cultural. One of the first was given by Mrs. S. T. Rorer of Philadelphia, author of the famous Mrs. Rorer's Cookbook.

Edwin C. Guillet, Canadian historian, has given an account of the Women's Institute in Chateaufort, which has grown into a fine big, bouncing magazine since we saw it last. He records that for a few years the idea of "uplifting the home and the betterment of conditions surrounding community life" was confined to Ontario, but between 1900 and 1910 institutes had been established from the Atlantic to the Pacific. At present there are in Canada about 2,000 associations with a membership of 70,000. The United States was second only to Ontario in establishing institutes, while Finland was one of the first European countries to recognize their great value to rural women. Thirty nations were represented at the international conference of Associated Countrywomen of the World in 1939, and many will be represented at the Guelph celebration this month. The institutes have received every encouragement from Provincial Departments of Agriculture. The original ideas have had many developments not foreseen by Mrs. Hoodless, but all in harmony with the central thought. Lecturers go from institute to institute giving courses of instruction lasting several days in cooking, handicrafts, home nursing and so forth. Says Mr. Guillet: "Such an interest was aroused in flower gardens and the painting and renovating of houses that in some localities it could truthfully be said that the homes of institute members preached a sermon to the passerby."

But when the institutes came into being the lot of the countrywoman, harsh and circumscribed though it was for many of them, was yet immeasurably better than it had been for their mothers and their grandmothers. Fifty years ago most of Eastern Canada had long since passed the pioneer stage, though to this day there remain regions where the conditions must be as grim as they were in Old Ontario a century back. There were, as Mr. Guillet reminds us, numerous people still living in all our Provinces who could recall the miseries of the Atlantic crossing by sailing ship, packed in the steerage for forty or fifty days, in crude wooden bunks, carrying their own food for the voyage, and bravely surmounting storm and fever and many other dangers and hardships before they reached the promised land.

Then when they had cleared a farm in the forest, as thousands of them did, the lives of the women were not less stark and laborious than those of the men as the house was built, the seed planted, the logs split for fencing and fuel, and finally the grain bagged and lugged for miles on a man's back to the nearest mill. These had been the common experiences for the forebears of the women who formed the institutes. Most of them had then escaped from the toil of spinning their own wool and making the clothes for their families, but other work remained, and generally it was the woman in the house who was first up in the morning and last to bed. There was also the inevitable loneliness which meant that it was only on Sundays that the farm woman had a word with her neighbors, while the trip to the nearest town was an event that might not lighten her toil half a dozen times in a year. The institutes did more perhaps than any other organization to put an end to these phases of life on the farm, and wherever they extend they are engaged in the same fine work of mercy and enlightenment.

If you have any pictures of your local campaign I would appreciate copies of them to be included in my final report.

In addition to Mr. Kelley's thanks, may I personally thank you for your magnificent achievement, and those public spirited women who so thoroughly washed, mended, repaired and packed the finest collection of goods ever assembled on such a large scale. It is no mean task to organize Ontario in less than a month for an effort of such huge proportions. The fact that it was done is attributable in a large measure to your keen perception of the need and the efforts necessary. Thanks!

Yours sincerely,

C. A. McDonald,
Executive Director.

ENSEMBLE OF ELEGANCE

By ALICE ALDEN

Now and again along comes a costume that simply exudes elegance, beauty and distinction—an unbeatable triumph. Such a costume is this summer outfit by Clare Potter, an ensemble of pale pink linen, combining a square-necked dress with a duster coat. The dress uses tucking strategically and beautifully, for the bodice and for the immense pockets. On the coat the pockets are square patches with buttoned down flaps with similar detail at the cuffs. This is a wonderful resort number.

When wedding bells ring out an invitation to you to be guest at a wedding, you will put on your best bib and tucker but don't leave your good manners at home. Sometimes wedding guests do!

Within three days of receiving a wedding invitation, you should answer it, using plain white notepaper, the same size as the invitation, and following the wording of the invitation as closely as possible. Send your wedding gift early, and always address it to the bride, even if you don't know her.

At the church, a woman guest goes down the aisle on the right arm of an usher, her male escort following a step or so behind. Don't protest if you find yourself being seated on the wrong side of the church (correct seating—groom's people on right side of church, bride's on left). Sometimes the rule is disregarded so bride and groom will seem to be equally represented.

The only person who is privileged to be late for the wedding is the bride, and she is, correctly, only one minute late. Guests arriving simultaneously with the bridal party must not rush ahead down the aisle nor lag along behind. They should wait until the bridal party is at the altar, then slip quietly into a back pew.

We are taught that to turn and stare is rude but, at a wedding, it is permissible to turn around and watch the bridal party entering and leaving the church.

The most common mistake made by wedding guests is congratulating the bride. She should be congratulated on getting her man. It is the groom who is congratulated for winning her. To the bride say: "I hope you'll be very happy."

Everyone wants to kiss the bride. Kiss her on the cheek, not on the mouth, as this will smear her lipstick and make her look untidy.

When viewing the wedding gifts, it is rude to handle them and in poor taste to use any of them as ash trays.

Time for guests to leave a wedding reception is immediately after the happy couple has departed for the honeymoon. One of the most courteous things a wedding guest can do, is to telephone the bride's mother a few days after and tell her what a lovely wedding it was.

Questions—Etiquette—Answers

TAXI: Is there a right or a wrong side for a woman to sit in a taxi?

ANSWER: Yes. In Canada, because our traffic runs on the right side of the road, the preferred position for a woman riding in a taxi is the right-hand side of the car. The road curves down to the right side and this makes tension for the one sitting on the left or "high" side of the car. In England, or any country where the traffic travels on the left, the position is reversed and preferred position is the left-hand side of the car.

UMBRELLA: "My wife and I always argue over who carries the umbrella," wrote "Grumbling Husband." "What's the etiquette there?"

ANSWER: Entirely satisfactory from your point of view! When it is raining, of course you carry the open umbrella to protect your wife from getting wet, but when it isn't raining and the umbrella is down, it is customary for the man to carry it.

NIGHT BLINDNESS

During the war, foods of high vitamin A content were popular with aviators, because of their use in prevention of night blindness. Carrots rank high among vegetables for their vitamin A content. This vitamin, say the authorities, also important for good skin, healthy membranes, such as the lips of nose and mouth, and for generally keeping tissues healthy.

NAME, PLEASE

One of the longest names on record was that of a daughter of Arthur Pepper, a London laundryman. The girl was born in London in 1883, and her initials totalled 26, one name for a letter of the alphabet. This is the way she was christened: "a Bertha Cecilia Diana Emily Fanny Gertrude Hypatia Inez Jakate Louise Maud Nora Ophelia Quince Rebecca Sarah Teresa Ulla Venus Winifred Xenophon Yelty Zeus Pepper." We have no real of what her nickname was.

DESTROY WASTES

Vast quantities of waste products—human as well as industrial—result from the processes of living. National Health authorities have issued a warning that accumulation of filth can be disastrous. Prompt, planned disposal of sewage and refuse is of prime importance to health maintenance. Care must be taken to ensure thorough removal of all such media of infection so that they cannot pollute the main sources of life—food, water and air.

Baptist Church

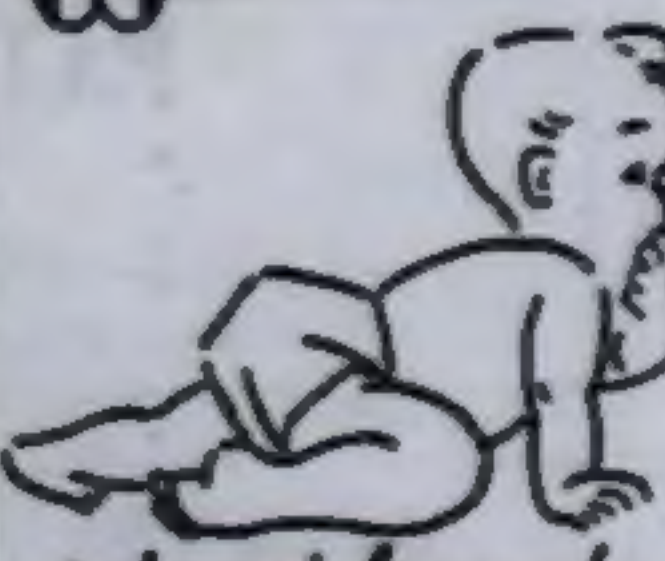

EASTER SUNDAY SERVICES

Commenting on the Easter Services in the Baptist Church, Mr. McLean, the minister, made the following statements: "While I am not in favor of special occasions and church services at the expense of the regular attendance at church I do feel that at Easter every one who has any connection with the church should attend the services of that branch of the church which is his choice. By so doing he will be making some acknowledgment of his gratitude to God for the many blessings that he, and the rest of the world have received as a result of the Resurrection and its effects on the world."

He further stated that he felt that the most acceptable and impressive way to celebrate this, the greatest festival of the Christian Church, is through the medium of good sacred music, instrumental and vocal alike. Because of this the services in his church on Sunday will be largely choral with very little in the way of preaching.

The choir under the capable leadership of Mrs. F. Simpson as director and Miss G. Ormiston, organist, have been practicing faithfully for a long time for these Easter services and will render effective, impressive and helpful assistance in our Easter worship. This together with the singing by all of many of the well loved Easter hymns will, we expect, provide an Easter long to be remembered with appreciation by the congregations that will gather on that day."

SOLVING THE OLD MYSTERY OF SAP IN THE MAPLE TREES

(By J. V. McAREE, in The Globe and Mail)

We are more of a city slicker than we are an honest, barefooted farmhand, and therefore do not know much about maple syrup except as it appears on pancakes from time to time. But with the assistance of an article in Natural History by Dorothy S. Towle we may be able to make a few remarks upon the subject. Now is the time when the sap in the maple trees is supposed to run, to be caught in buckets and later to be turned into maple sugar or maple syrup. Our own knowledge of the process comes from a piece in an old Fourth Reader by Charles Dudley Warner, who seems to have been enraptured by it and able to communicate some of his rapture to others. Maple syrup seems to be a product of the northern New England States, Quebec and Ontario; at least they produce the greatest share of it for market, and it is of the highest quality. When the days are warm and bright and the nights freezing, there is a flow of the sap in the woods will speak of "sap weather". This means that the sap after a winter's sleep is moving through the trees again and is ready to be tapped. We are informed that it is considered a mark of ignorance to ask a man how many maple trees he has. You should ask him how many buckets. It is an ancient belief that the sap does not flow when the wind is from the east.

But how does it flow and why does it flow? It appears that ideas on this subject, widely held and passionately propounded, are for the most part folk lore and will not stand scientific analysis. Some believed that the sap flows because of root pressure, the roots forcing the sap into the tree. Another theory was that the evaporation of moisture from the leaves and twigs during the summer exerted a pull which brought sap up through tiny tubes in the trunk of the tree, and that the same pull might be felt in winter even when the leaves were absent. To learn the truth of the mystery two experimenters at the University of New Hampshire, Clark Stevens, a forester, and Russell Eggert, a horticulturist, began work a couple of years ago. What they found out surprised even themselves. To test the root-pressure theory, a tree was cut down, placed in a barrel and tapped. It was without roots and yet sap flowed from it as freely as from a neighboring tree which had been left standing for purpose of comparison.

The theory that the evaporation of moisture from leaves had something to do with the phenomena was next exploded. A maple was stripped of all its branches and the scars were sealed with grafting wax. There were no leaves, naturally. But the sap continued to run just as it did in normal trees. Another tree had both root and crown removed. It was placed in a tub of water. Sap flowed normally. The tree was turned upside down and again placed in water and the sap flowed as if nothing unusual had happened! Next a tree was cut into eight-foot lengths, some sections placed upright in water; others upside down and others horizontally with an inner tube of water attached to one end. Still the sap flowed imperturbably, but not in such large quantities. The sap refused absolutely to co-operate when a tree or a section thereof was placed on a rock. Obviously, it was the water that had a great deal to do with the flow of sap. As long as the tree or the section of the tree could absorb water no difference could be detected in the flow of sap, so far as quality was concerned, though after certain manhandling the flow was less copious.

The experimenters next turned their attention to the temperature of the trees, and found that when the temperature drops to below freezing the outer part of the tree just under the bark, called the cambium, freezes quickly, following the temperature of the air very closely. Deeper in the wood the changes are slower and sometimes the heart of the tree would not freeze till midnight, whereas the outer part had frozen early in the evening. At other times they were confronted with the paradox that sometimes when the drop in temperature was very rapid, the inner part of the tree would freeze first. They found that in the interval between the time that the air reached thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit, and the centre of the tree showed this temperature, the tree was absorbing water. Apparently, as the outer part of the wood freezes a tension is set up in the cells by which water is drawn from the interior of the tree to the outside and from the bottom to the top. As it gets colder the freezing penetrates to the heart of the tree and down the trunk until the tree is completely frozen. If the drop in temperature is too sudden, not so much water is absorbed; if the drop is slow the amount absorbed is greater.

If Messrs. Stevens and Eggert have observed correctly, of which there can be little doubt, they have made a discovery of much importance. If the flow of sap is wholly dependent on the temperature of the air, that is on the recurrent freezing and thawing, why should not the trees be tapped in October instead of March? It is possible that the quality of the fall sap might not be as good as that obtained in the spring, but that remains to be proved. Also it would seem possible that if a man wanted to clear a maple tree out of his lot he could cut it in suitable lengths, cover them with water and get maple sap all season. In other words, he could eat his cake and have it, a feat that has never been performed before except with an onion. We know now that there is such a thing as sap weather, and that it is weather of alternate frost and thaw, and that it is the variation that influences the sap, and not just an accidental accompaniment to a natural process. As Miss Towle concludes: "Without these weather conditions there would be

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING TO WELD

ONTARIO'S future prosperity depends directly on a sufficient volume of production to satisfy domestic needs and assure for Canada a pre-eminent place in the markets of the world. Take the metal trades for example... never before has the demand, both here and abroad, for the products of Ontario's metal industries been so great. Production must be increased... but to meet new production goals, skilled hands are needed. For them great opportunities lie ahead. Higher wages, job security, better working conditions are within easier reach of those who have mastered a skilled occupation.

Today, through the plan sponsored by the Department of Veterans' Affairs and other agencies, hundreds of young workers are being trained to meet the needs of the metal trades. Graduates of these rehabilitation courses are now ready to take their places in Ontario's industry. Available to you are veterans, well started on the road to skilled metal working trades such as tool making, blacksmithing, machine operation, iron working, pattern making, welding and forging. Seek them out with confidence. They are your future craftsmen.

WELDING

The Welding Course gives the student a good knowledge and practical experience of both oxy-acetylene and electric arc welding. Available at Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto and Brockville, this course includes the study of different metals and alloys. The graduate, with further practice, should become a good all round welder.

Vocational training courses are offered at training centres located in the following cities and towns in Ontario: Toronto, London, Hamilton, Kitchener, Windsor, Ft. William, Brockville, Kingston, North Bay, Ottawa, Guelph, Kemptville, Haltonbury.

Baptist Church

SUNDAY SCHOOL FLOWER SUNDAY

Sunday School Flower Sunday was celebrated in the Baptist Church last Sunday morning when, in the auditorium which was transformed into a veritable bower of beauty by the multitude of beautiful flowers brought by the scholars of the school and others, the entire school attended the morning service as a school and sat together in the centre seats reserved for them.

The service was in charge of the Superintendent of the school, Miss M. Cline. The Union Psalm was led by Patsy Nichols of the Intermediate Department of the school. Miriam Ann Konkle of the Junior Department led the school in repeating the 121st Psalm which they had memorized, and Lyn Cooper, also of the Junior Department, read the New Testament lesson.

The school rendered as a special vocal number a fine hymn anthem. Three classes had perfect attendance and were asked to stand, and received applause by the rest of the school and the congregation. They were the willing workers with Mrs. Henderson as teacher; the steadfast Seekers, Miss Muriel Morris, teacher; and Young Canadians, with J. Morris as leader.

The Rev'd Gen. A. McLean gave a talk on speaking with the feet and said that each was talking continually with their feet and in so doing were telling others what kind of persons they were and what they thought of other persons. He said that Jesus always told people the same things about himself through his feet through his entire life. He told three things, first that he loved everyone, that he was anxious to help everyone and willing to do anything even to die to do this, and that he was able to do what he wanted to for others. He urged that everyone but especially the boys and girls tell the same story with their feet and said that we must all seek the Master's help, if we wished to tell that story. He took his text from Prov. 6:13, "He speaketh with his feet."

After the evening service many of the flowers were taken to the sick and shut-ins of the congregation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The Baptist Church and Church School will hold their annual picnic to Simcoe Park, Niagara-on-the-Lake, on Saturday afternoon next, June 21st.

The picnic procession will leave the church at 1:30 o'clock p.m. sharp and every one is warned to be on time and not be left behind.

The younger departments of the school will be transported together, and lots of fun is promised them on the ride both there and back. They will be under the supervision of careful, responsible adults and will not only be supremely happy but completely safe.

The elders will be given transportation in cars and any of the congregation having cars available are asked to use them and to be at the church before 12:30 p.m.

ST. CATHARINES CLUB VISITS AT GRIMSBY

The annual pilgrimage of the St. Catharines Women's Literary Club was held on Saturday afternoon when members and guests visited by bus some of the historic spots of the district—Decew House, reminiscent of General Fitzgibbon and Laura Secord, Turney House, Pelham, Smithville, Gage House, Stony Creek battleground and monument unveiled by Queen Mary, Mennonite Settlement, Beamsville, and "The House by the Side of the Road."

Historical sketches which involved a great deal of time and research had been prepared by the president, Mrs. George Montgomery were read by members of the club as the points were visited and the fact that some of the readers were the descendants of the subjects of the sketches added interest to these reminiscences.

A delectable buffet high tea was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Harold Rayner at Grimsby, the weather not permitting having tea in the garden as first planned.

(By Bones Livingston, Sportologist)

Last week the LEGION boys got the sweet surprise of their lives when they stacked up against the GRIMSBY MOUNTAIN lads and took a 7-5 trimming in the FRUIT BELT League. LEGION lads did not think that the MOUNTIES were good enough to take them but they found out that they were sadly mistaken. Other games last week in the league were WINONA 14, STOP 66 7; SMITHVILLE took STONEY CREEK 4-1, and JORDAN also lapped the CREEKERS to the tune of 11-4. To date I still do not know whether BEAMSVILLE is in the League or not. ... It will not be long until LITTLE WHIZZER will be hiking to the northern bush country. The fishes are waiting for him. ... Sport fans in the Fruit Belt will regret to learn that MIKE SWEET, one of the PEACH KINGS trainers and a popular fellow around hockey rinks and ball fields, has been confined to Hamilton General hospital for the past few days for observation and X-rays. MIKE has not been in the best health for some time and last week suffered several dizzy spells and pains in his head which forced him to lay off work. At the time of writing it is not known just what the trouble is. ... GRIMSBY PEACH BUDS hardball team got into action for the first time last Thursday night and turned in a nice game for their initial effort of the year. They were playing the well-trained, well-organized CRAWFORDS team of Hamilton and while defeated by a 4-0 score they were certainly a long way from being outplayed. DOUG, ALTON went the route for the BUDS on the mound with SCHWAB and BETZNER going the chores behind the bat. For his first outing of the year the kid left-hander turned in a nice job of twirling and will improve as the season advances and the team sees more action. ... MEL JOHNSON has opened his tennis courts, at the rear of his hardware store, for the season. All lovers of the game of the racket and the ball have an excellent chance to show their wares on these courts as they are now in first class condition despite all the bad weather. MEL is now looking time for play. ... GEORGIE ZUKE, starry centre ice player of the PEACH KINGS is pitching softball for a St. Catharines team. ... THOROLD MOUNTIES hockey team were tendered a civic banquet by the Thorold Legion last week and presented with suitable gifts in appreciation of their work on the ice lanes during the past winter. Two sizable cheques were presented to one of the players who suffered severe injuries during the season.

BOWLING SKIPS

It is nice to be a bowler. When you have a steady hand. With your eye a judge of distance. As it seems the green-tipped land. But it's nicer, yes, far nicer. Let me give you all a tip. For to be with jolly fellows. With a genteel man as skip.

Now a skip the's always pleasant. Has a better chance to win. For the one who always 'chews the rag'. Gets underneath your skin. And a game is lost, yes often. By a skip who wears a frown. Then to follow that demeanor. And proceed to call you down.

There's no doubt times, however,

When the lead is short at that. No matter how he lays his bowls. He's never near the 'cat'. Have patience, skip, have patience. You were once a novice, too. But a smile and words of kindness. Will help to pull him through.

There is good and bad in bowlers. As there is in any game. For this old world would be funny. With all temperaments the same. But for real, right-down good fellows. You will find them, I am told. When they meet and play together. In the good old game of bowls.

There never seems to be any let-down to the hold-up business. Oh, for the good old days when all a man had to worry about was halitosis and B.O.

A parent is a person who knows how to solve most complicated problems with the exception of managing a teen-age child.

Which gives you greater traction on a smooth deck? Two fingers ... or the whole palm of your hand?

That's why the NEW B. F. Goodrich Flat Tread gives you longer shorts ... sure, safer stops!

More rubber on the road—that's the secret of this amazing new tire. But to put more rubber on the road, B. F. Goodrich had to design; engineer and build a completely new kind of tire! A new, tougher, cooler-running rubber was developed. The massive tread was made FLAT—the tire body 35% stronger!

On the road, the flat tread and powerful sidewalls of this great NEW tire reduce side-wall flexing. That means less friction and less heat. This tire runs cooler—wears longer. The mighty flat tread puts more rubber on the road—for better weight distribution; and safer, safer stops and starts.

More than 21 MILLION grueling test miles have proved this the longest mileage tire ever built by B. F. Goodrich. It outwears the best pre-war tires with ease!

COCA-COLA

ITS FAME AND FORTUNE

(By DON WHARTON, in The Reader's Digest)

Coca-Cola, the world's best known commercial product, is older than nine out of ten Americans. It antedates autos, radios, motion pictures, comic strips, rural free delivery, and a thousand other everyday ingredients of American life.

This drink was created in 1886 by a Confederate veteran, John S. Pemberton, who had struggled through Reconstruction as a retail druggist, wholesaler and patent-medicine blender. At 33 he had put out, without notable success, a cough syrup, a blood medicine, a hair dye, a liver pill and a "prohibition drink" called "Gingerine."

Pemberton's plant was a dilapidated two-story red brick house in Atlanta, Ga., his laboratory a three-legged iron pot in the back yard. In this pot, heated by a wood fire, he mixed and tasted, mixed and tasted, working on a formula for a new beverage. Then he took a jug of the syrup to Willis Venable's soda-fountain in Jacob's drugstore at Five Points. Soda water was added, there was more tasting, with comments and suggestions by customers. Finally, Pemberton had everything but a name. A bookkeeper, F. M. Robinson, learning the drink's taste came partly from cocoa leaves and cola nuts, wrote out in flowing script

"Coca-Cola."

Pemberton sold 25 gallons of syrup the first year, over a thousand the second. A sick man by then, hard-pressed for money, he sold two thirds interest in the formula for $1200 and then on his death bed the next year let his other third go for $500. Had he retained a mere one tenth interest, his heirs by now would have received $2,650,681.44 in dividends.

The man who acquired this fabulous commodity was Asa Candler, a 37-year-old druggist with a genius for merchandising. Candler turned Coca-Cola from a local curiosity dispensed at a few fountains into a great business. From 1888 to 1919 he spread it across the length and breadth of the land, then sold out for $25,000,000—never dreaming that one day the company would net that much in a single year. The purchasers were a group headed by another Georgian, Ernest Woodruff, and led since 1923 by his son, Bob.

Advertising is the thread that runs through all phases of Coca-Cola's existence. Pemberton spent $46 on advertising the first year, about 90 percent of his receipts, mainly for oilcloth signs which were pinned to drugstore awnings. In its second year Coca-Cola was advertised in Atlanta's horsecars. The familiar phrase "Delicious and Refreshing" dates back to 1886. "The Pause That Refreshes" is only 16 years old.

The word "Coke" was not used in an ad until 1941. Here is perhaps the only case in commercial history of a trade-mark forced upon a company by popular demand. Originally Coca-Cola fought all nicknames. Thirty years ago it advertised: "Ask for a Coca-Cola by the full name. Nicknames encourage substitution." Still people went on calling it "Coke," and in the South, "Dope." Finally, "Dope" died out, but "Coke" became a part of the American language. Today if a novelist or columnist writes Coca-Cola without the hyphen or "Coke" with a small "c" he receives a letter from the company's legal department. The company is simply trying to protect its trademark. It lost exclusive rights to the word "Cola," and is determined not to lose Coca-Cola or "Coke."

Today's Coca-Cola ads are notable for their restraint. But in 1887 the drink was advertised as a "Brain Tonic and Intellectual Beverage." Ten years later it was claiming, "cures headaches. Renews the exhausted brain and body caused by excessive mental and physical labor, loss of sleep, etc." Ads were illustrated with drawings of college men burning the midnight oil and stock-brokers looking

22 POLISH VETERANS ARRIVE FOR FARMS

The local farm labour shortage was considerably helped this week when 22 Polish veterans, part of the group which came to Canada from England on the S. & Aquitania, arrived at the offices of the National Employment Service in Hamilton last Sunday morning. Farmers of the district, who had placed orders for the veterans, had been notified by officials of the Employment Office and were waiting at the office. The veterans were quickly allocated to the farmers who took them home to start their new life as farm hands on Canadian farms.

Through the volunteer efforts of thousands of Canadian women in Red Cross Branches throughout the Dominion, 2,378,330 articles of clothing and hospital supplies went forward last year to distressed persons abroad and in Canada. Mrs. Clara F. McEachren, retiring Chairman of the Women's Work Committee, told the annual meeting of Central Council.

This figure brings the total accomplishment of the Women's Work Committee to 53,039,867, representing articles fashioned both during the war and since. "The nature of the work in 1946 differs from that of war years only as to exclude comforts for the Armed Forces," Mrs. McEachren explained.

"The vast needs of war-devastated countries call for every effort on our part," she said, "and will absorb as much as we can produce for considerable time to come." Mrs. McEachren spoke of the difficulty of maintaining workroom quotas against present-day shortages of materials. "However," she added, "the output of work for 1946 indicates the decided willingness of Canadian women to work—and work hard—for the Red Cross in war or peace, whenever vital need is presented to them."

In addition to supplies for relief in Britain, Europe and the Far East, women's work groups have been making stores for home relief and supplies for Red Cross Outpost Hospitals, Veterans' hospitals and civilian hospitals in Canada.

Mrs. Orian Warwick is taking over the duties of Women's Work Chairman on Mrs. McEachren's retirement. During the war Mrs. Warwick served as Assistant Chairman of Ontario Red Cross warehouse.

County Council

At the opening of the June sessions in St. Catharines on Tuesday, Warden W. I. Patterson of Niagara-on-the-Lake, and the members of the Lincoln County Council were informed by H. R. Scott, Minister of the Department of Lands and Forests, that his department would co-operate as far as possible in the matter of Game Inspectors for Lincoln and Welland counties.

During the May sessions of council, Reeve Cecil Secord of Grantham Township, indignantly charged that the wild-life, especially deer and pheasants, of the two counties was being killed off by illegal shooting. At that time council passed a resolution calling upon the department to appoint additional game inspectors for Lincoln and Welland in an effort to put a stop to the poaching of deer.

In his letter to council, Mr. Scott pointed out that his department is approaching the problem of fish and wildlife protection from two points of view, that of gradual increase of field staff where the need is greatest and at the same time through publicity and work with game and fish associations, county and township councils in impress upon citizens the "very patent fact" that natural resources are the property of the citizens and that it is to their interest to see that they are not dissipated through illegal use.

The minister added that his department would work wholeheartedly with the Lincoln County Council towards remedying the situation.

The council was asked by the council of the Town of Petrolia to give approval to a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to consider the provision of a system of mail delivery for towns since mail delivery is now made to most rural and city homes in Canada.

The County Council was requested by W. B. C. Burgeyne, on behalf of the St. Catharines Horse Show, to consider making a grant this year on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the popular summer event. The horse show is to take place on June 24th to 27th and the cost is expected to reach the sum of $12,000.

The Board of Governors of the St. Catharines General Hospital expressed their sincere appreciation to the county council for the grant of $5,000, made this year to the institution. W. Deans, Secretary of the Clerks and Treasurers Association, expressed the thanks of his organization for the use of the council chambers for the meeting held this month in St. Catharines.

In a letter addressed to Reeve Cecil Secord of Grantham, Mr. S. D. Randall of the Department of Education, Toronto, informed the council that Stamford does not expect to incorporate Old Niagara and Niagara Township into its school district this year. Mr. Randall stated that the Stamford board would prefer having the two municipalities added to the school district next year when it is possible that portions of Welland County will be included in the Stamford district.

Above we picture Grimsby's Great Palace of Pleasure, but in all the years that it catered to crowds upon crowds it was not until the night of May 30th, that one of those crowds sat calmly and noiselessly and listened and witnessed a performance. Yes, it is Grimsby Arena transformed into a bower of beauty for the Blossom Time Music Festival under the clever hands of the Niagara Packers boys. The huge crowd of nearly 1,500 were not raving and ranting at the referee, or cajoling their favorite Peach Kings to go out and score, but instead they listened in rapture to the beautiful music that emanated from the vocalists and the choirs under the baton of Gordon L. Eaton. The old place does not look natural, does it? It was a wonderful show in a wonderful setting and was just one more step toward putting Grimsby in the Big City Class.

In Memoriam

JONES—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Irene, who passed away June 22nd, 1945.

We still remember the way she looked,
The way she spoke and smiled,
The little things she said and did,
Are with us all the while.

—Ever remembered by mother, dad and brothers.

TODD—In loving memory of our dear Dad, Edward Todd, who died June 23rd, 1944.

Off and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave not far away,
Where we laid our dear father,
Just three years ago today.

—Ever remembered by his Family.

GEDDES—In loving memory of my beloved husband, Harry, who passed away one year ago, June 18th, 1945.

We worked together, you and I,
In sorrow and in joy,
We shared our pains and happiness
With love without alloy.
And death shall never end our love,
For through the mist I see
Our glad reunion in the skies
For all eternity.

BLAINE—In ever loving memory of our little son and brother, Bobby Blaine, aged 6½ years, fatally injured June 17th, 1945.

Two years have passed since that sad day
When our little boy was called away.
Angels keep their watch up there;
Please, God, just let him know that we down here
Will never forget we loved and miss him so.

—Always remembered, Daddy, Mommy Judy, Gerry, Don and Brian.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS OPEN FRUIT STAND

Two local lads, Gordon Ruse and Don Riches, have opened a Fruit Stand on the northeast corner of Stand on the northeast corner of Korman Ave. and the Queen Elizabeth Way. The idea started with the object of providing fresh fruit of the highest quality for the American Tourists who will be visiting the Queen Elizabeth on their way up to the vacationland of Northern Ontario. The boys plan to buy the choicest fruit, including those world-famous Grimsby Peaches, and present it for sale in attractive packages. By so doing they will show the American guests and other travellers what fine fruit we grow here in Grimsby, "the heart of the fruit belt."

Their stand is constructed of two large display racks with a sides, and is painted white with red roof. A large red and that sign on top tells the motorist his here in the best place to buy fruit.
The two boys plan to carry fruit in small "out-of-the-way" packages, and in larger baskets cooking or preserving.
During the summer, when the largest number of tourists into expected to cross the be fill a Ontario, the lads hope to fill the goodly number of tumblers red as fruit that will be remembered coming from GRIMSBY—the of the world's finest peaches.

REAL ESTATE

Anna Lyle of Toronto, is the purchaser of 2½ acres of choice soil, planted to peaches, near the lake, Grimsby Beach. The sale was made through W. Congdon, Realtor.

THANKS FOR CLOTHES

The following letter of thanks from Macedonia, for clothing that had been sent from Grimsby, is self-explanatory:

Naumen, Macedonia, June 7, 1947

My dearest Greta Ball,

I have gotten a combination for my child and there fortunately I found your address. I considered as a duty to thank you heartily for it.

I am happy to have a correspondence with you. Hope you are also willing to get acquainted with a Greek family.

I am married and have two children. The one is a girl, 8 years old. The other is a boy 5 years old. My husband is in the army. He has 26 months since he is there.

I am getting on very difficulty with my family. We are in a great need. The war brought us a great catastrophe.

Will you kindly provide us whatever you are able to do so. Either in clothing or in money. I shall be grateful to you and God will abundantly bless you.

May God bless you and your family. With love.

Georgia Kalaisiri.
